

Hughes Makes Counter-'Expose' Regarding Plane Contracts

LOS ANGELES, July 28—(P)—Howard Hughes, in a signed article appearing in the Los Angeles Examiner today and copyrighted by the newspaper, made public a statement regarding a Senate committee investigation of government plane contracts awarded him and Henry J. Kaiser.

The Hughes article was in the form of an open letter addressed to Sen. Owen Brewster (R-Me.), chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee.

"You know, Senator, if you hadn't gone too far overboard, I might have been willing to take a certain shellacking in this publicity spree of yours," said Hughes in one part of his letter.

"So I sat back and let you do the talking for five days. But one thing you said, which just appeared in the papers, sort of stuck in my mind.

F. B. CO-OP ACQUIRES GWINN ELEVATORS

A QUARREL THAT BEGAN during a card game, according to police in Kearny, N. J., brought death by drowning to Mrs. Jean Eliops (right), 23, wife of Louis Eliops (left), 24, who is being held by authorities. Police say that Eliops lured his wife to the Passaic River with a false story and then struck her as they stood in knee-deep water. As they struggled, continued police, he hit her with a rock and then held her head under water until she drowned. It is reported that Eliops attempted to drown himself but changed his mind. Figures on Event Still Incomplete But 24,556 Paid at Gate To See It

With total paid admissions of 24,556 and approximately 1500 exhibitors tickets and passes issued, the Fayette County Fair came to a successful close late Saturday night, with not a single minute spoiled by inclement weather and with a snug sum left in the treasury to be turned into more improvements during the coming year.

The huge Gwinn Elevator, taken over by the Fayette County Farm Bureau Co-op Association this week, rises high above South Fayette Street to a place of prominence in the Washington C. H. skyline.

10-Year Lease With Purchase Option in Deal

Plant Management Has Been Assigned To Leland Stevens
In the largest business deal consummated in Washington C. H. in recent years, the Fayette County Farm Bureau Cooperative Association this week formally takes over the big grain elevator and feed mill of The Gwinn Elevator Co., here and on August 1 also will take over the Gwinn Service Station located on South Fayette Street opposite the elevator.

President's Mother Honored in Death

Mrs. Martha Truman To Be Buried In Kansas City, Where She Was Born

GRANDVIEW, Mo., July 28—(P)—Mrs. Martha Ellen Truman, daughter of a Missouri pioneer farmer and mother of the nation's president, will be buried this afternoon on a shaded knoll in Kansas City—the town where she was born 94 years ago.

The ceremony will be simple and private, as the mother and her devoted son, Harry S. Truman, had previously agreed. The funeral services beginning at 3 P. M., central standard time (4 P. M., EST) in Mrs. Truman's plainly furnished living room were for the family alone.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE
Once more the littered, trampled grounds are silent reminders of the annual Fayette County Fair which was held last week, and while the big Fair, one of the best ever held here (I think of it as the best) is but a memory, it left much of value to the people and the community.

Body of Heiress Believed in Lake

Civil Service Exams Set For Aug. 23

Ward Miller
At OSES Office
Gives Information

Ward C. Miller, manager of the Washington C. H. branch of the Ohio State Employment Service, announced Monday that the State Civil Service Commission of Ohio will conduct open competitive examinations for stenographers, (grades one and two), and typists, (grade one), in Columbus and five other Ohio cities on August 23.

Application forms for these examinations may be obtained from the State Civil Service Commission in Columbus and must be filed in the office of the Commission not later than 5 p. m. August 11. Complete information concerning the examinations may be obtained at the OSES office here.

New employees appointed to positions in the State Classified Service are at this time receiving a legislative increase of at least 18-1-3 percent of their base salaries. The base salary range for stenographers, grade one, is now $115 to $150 a month. For stenographers, grade two, the base salary range is $100 to $110. Typists, grade one, have a base salary range of $85 to $120.

Hedges Stewart Is Wanted Here

Granville (Hedges) Stewart, is in trouble once more.

He was arrested in Springfield and removed to Chillicothe Saturday to face charges filed there, the nature of which was not disclosed.

As soon as he gets through with his appointment in Chillicothe, the Athens police have an engagement with him, according to Police Chief Vaiden Long.

After Athens gets through with him, Stewart will be brought here to face a charge of stealing a truck from Earl Deering last April, the charge having been filed here before R. H. Sites.

casket, where close friends said their goodbyes lay Martha Truman in her favorite blue dress—a dress she bought last February to wear on a visit to Harry in the White House.

That trip was never made, because of a fall on February 13 fractured her hip and led to the heart strain which brought about her death. On an earlier visit—for Mother's Day, 1945—she had captured the nation's fancy by exclaiming "fiddlesticks" At the fuss made about her.

She asked her newly-sworn-in son, "Harry, if you are president, why can't you shoo all these people away?"

The president, meeting an old friend on her doorstep last night, said he was "tired." He didn't make the energetic 6 A. M. walk that is usual when he stays at the summer White House in Independence, 25-miles away, now occupied by the presidential family.

Grandview held an official "day of mourning." The community of 1200 had put out its flags and lowered to half-staff. Its citizens were not demonstrative; they said they became reconciled last May to losing their most famed inhabitant.

The business establishments near the Truman cottage arranged to close up shop.

Many of the neighbors planned to go to Kansas City for the funeral, though they would have to stand outside a roped enclosure.

The pallbearers were easily decided—her four grandsons, and two nephews. The grandsons,

Eighty Percent of Wheat Threshed

With a full week of good weather, barring part of Saturday, more than 80 percent of the wheat has been threshed, and a few more days will see the entire crop in the granaries and elevators.

Yields have varied greatly, from around 15 bushels to up in the 30's, but for the most part the quality has been the worst in recent years.

Not only has most of the wheat placed in the shock been threshed, but the 75 percent or more left for the combine, has nearly all been harvested.

Mrs. Ben Fleming Dies At Flint Rest Home

Mrs. Ben Fleming, 74, died Monday at 1:15 P. M. in the Flint Rest Home, where she had been a patient for the past year.

Mrs. Fleming, who was born in Madison County, lived most of her life in Fayette County, where she belonged to the Grace Methodist Church and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, both of this city.

She was proceeded in death by her husband, Ben. Survivors are one brother, D. W. Brahtwaite of Springfield and one brother-in-law, Tom Banion of South Solon.

Arrangements which are under direction of Hook and Son Funeral Home will be made later.

profit whatsoever.

"Furthermore, I and my companies have paid taxes to the government totaling $25,000,000. And I have paid salaries to employees totaling $300,000,000.

"As far as the airplane business is concerned, I have been in it 13 years and this is the result I have lost $14,000,000.

"So I don't think I have been defrauding the government."

In another portion of the letter Hughes said:

"And, incidentally, since you think it is so horrible for anyone to accept my hospitality, why don't you tell about the $1,400 worth of airplane trips which you requested and accepted from me?"

Hughes said the airplane transportation consisted of "a round trip in a luxurious private airplane from Washington, D. C., to Morgantown, W. Va., on Feb. 10, 1947, then from Washington, D. C., to Columbus, Ohio, on Feb. 11."

In conclusion the letter stated: "Yes, senator, the regular charter price for those flights is $1,400. But you didn't pay anything for them, did you?"

BREWSTER'S VERSION

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—Senator Brewster (R-Maine) said today he had accepted free air transportation furnished by Howard Hughes only because the Hollywood millionaire asked for an immediate conference with him on an investigation of a wartime plane contract.

Hughes had charged in an open letter to Brewster earlier that the chairman of the Senate War Investigating committee had been flown about the country by him at a cost of $1,400.

Shown a copy of the letter just before the committee opened hearings on Hughes' contract for construction of a huge flying boat, Brewster told reporters it was true that he had ridden in Hughes' planes.

Brewster's version was as follows:

He was in Kansas City on a Sunday morning after making a Lincoln Day address early this year when Hughes called him from Washington and asked for an immediate conference about the committee's investigation work. Brewster was not certain of the date, but thought it was February 13.

Hughes Proposition

Brewster told Hughes that he had two speeches to deliver, one in Morgantown, W. Va., and another in Columbus, Ohio, before returning to Washington and could not reach Washington until Wednesday.

"Hughes said I will fly you, if you will come back to Washington," Brewster said. "So I bought a ticket on TWA (Hughes' Airline) and came back to Washington."

"We had a committee meeting at which we examined Hughes about the contracts."

Then, the Maine senator said, Hughes offered to have Brewster flown to Morgantown, W. Va., for the speech there that night in the "executive plane" of Jack Frye, then head of TWA.

Frye's plane brought him back to Washington, Brewster said, and the next day Hughes personally flew Brewster and Senator Brickner (R-Ohio) to Columbus for a speech there that night. Hughes returned immediately to Washington and had Frye's plane pick up Brewster for the return trip after the speech.

"That reveals some of Mr. Hughes' methods," the Maine senator said. "He could have waited in Columbus for the short time I was there, but he sent out another plane instead."

Meanwhile Merrill Meigs, wartime war production board official, said today the board feared Kaiser would take his case "to the man in the street" if it failed to give "every consideration" to his plans

But Meigs, who headed the WBA Aircraft Division, told the Senate war investigating committee that he knew of no "political pressure" which forced the letting of a contract to Kaiser and Howard Hughes, millionaire manufacturer, for the ship despite opposition of the aircraft industry and practically every government agency concerned.

The project, proposed in 1942 when submarine sinkings were causing great concern, "sounded good to the man in the street," the witness said.

In The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, July 28—(P)—Until 1950 the social security tax on you—means most workers and employers—will continue to be one percent.

That's what the tax has been since the beginning of social security. Before it adjourned last week, Congress voted to keep the tax at that figure until 1950.

Since this is a tax taken out of the income of most families, here is an explanation of it.

In the mid 1930's Congress decided that workers when they grew old should get some kind of protection, and so should their families, if the workers died.

This could have taken two forms: Charity or insurance. Congress decided on insurance for which the workers themselves would help pay.

So in 1935 it passed the Social Security Act, but the act didn't go into effect for two years. Starting in 1937, this is what has been happening:

On the pay they earned up to $3,000, a tax of one percent is deducted from the pay of workers "covered" by the insurance. Not all are.

And the employers of such workers pay a tax of one percent on the pay each worker earns up to $3,000 a year.

(Note: This particular social security tax has nothing to do with any other kind of tax, such as for unemployment.)

But no one, under the law, could start receiving any benefits from the social security system until 1940.

This gave the government a chance to build up its social security fund from the taxes it started taking in back in 1937.

But, starting in 1940, it has been making monthly benefit payments to:

1. Retired workers, men and women, who have reached 65.
2. An additional monthly benefit for a retired worker's wife, if she is 65, and for his unmarried children under 18.
3. If the retired worker over 65 dies, then monthly benefits go to:
 1. His widow, if she's 65 or over.
 2. His widow of any age, if she has dependent children in her care.
 3. Unmarried children under 18.
 4. To dependent parents of the dead worker.

In 1940, the first year benefits were given, about 108,000 people received them. Now about 1,771,000 are receiving them. The number grows every year.

About 50,000,000 people are now about 50,000,000 people are now 500,000 are workers and 3,000,000 are employees.

(About 25,000,000 workers are not paying the tax because they are not "covered" under the law and therefore can't receive the benefits.)

(These include railroad workers (there's a separate system for them); employees of federal, state and local governments; agricultural workers; domestic servants; self-employed people; and people working for non-profit organizations.)

'G-Gals' Now on Decline As They Trade Jobs for a Home

By HAL BOYLE

WASHINGTON, — (P) —Leaves from a capitol notebook:

Budget trimming is reducing the number of "G-gals"—government girl employees—in Washington.

It is estimated that only 95,000 of the 215,000 federal workers here are women.

them, under social security. It hasn't happened.)

The government's social security fund has taken in, through the tax, about $9,860,000,000 since 1937. After paying out benefits, it still has about $8,798,000,000.

Congress knew back in 1935, when it passed the law, that the number of people who started receiving benefits in 1940 would be comparatively small.

But it knew this number would grow year by year as the number of people "covered" by the law reached 65 and retired.

To build up the fund to take care of the future heavy drain on it, Congress voted this:

To raise the tax gradually from one percent, starting in 1943, until it reached three percent, starting in 1949.

But each time Congress blocked the scheduled increase and finally decided to let it stay at one percent until Jan. 1, 1948, when it would become 2½ percent.

So the increase would have come

Some of the girl victims of the economy ax have departed for the old home town tearful and depressed, but others are blessing their dismissal notices.

The reasons: Many boy friends content to court a government girl indefinitely as long as she was on the payroll, are now coming through with wedding rings.

And most girls, here as elsewhere, are ready and willing to trade their posts with Uncle Sam for a trip to the altar.

Most important public documents and messages are now re-next Jan 1, if Congress last week once more had not stepped in and said "no."

This time it decided to postpone any increase from one percent until Jan. 1, 1950, when it is to become 1½ percent.

(Congress, of course, between now and then may change its mind again.)

Briefly, the arguments for and against increasing the tax go like this:

For—to take care of the huge drain on the fund in the future, the tax should be hiked now.

Against—there's no immediate need for an increase because the fund has far more money than it has to pay out in benefits.

Meantime, the tax remains at one percent.

leased to the press and radio several hours in advance of their actual publication.

But the Library of Congress, after retaining the secret Abraham Lincoln papers for 28 years, released them at a spot news conference, forcing reporters to scramble for telephones just as if Lincoln were still alive and had issued a dramatic announcement.

"I never thought," said one dazed newsman, "that I'd ever be phoning bulletin on the Civil War."

That's Washington. Calvin Coolidge practiced law in Northampton, Mass., after leaving the presidency. Al Singleton, a reporter at the capitol now for the Associated Press, recalls that each year a New York chef used to send a birthday cake to Coolidge.

The former president would call in Northampton friends to help eat it. On one occasion he noticed Singleton wrapping up his portion.

"What are you doing with that cake?" Coolidge demanded.

"Taking it home to my mother," Coolidge hesitated, then turned to his wife and said:

"Cut him a big slice, Grace."

The capitol's corridors and rotunda hold dozens of bronze and marble statues of American statesmen and public figures. Their posture is stiff, their expressions more lofty than they probably were in normal life.

Some of their names, once well known, have become obscure in the long wash of history.

The statute that many visitors like most is the one with the wide grain, the man who often poked good-natured fun at Congress—Will Rogers. And he's still laughing at the antics that go on there.

The elevator operators at the capitol see little more of the world than a sailor in a submarine, but they have plenty of time to brood over the world's troubles.

"How's business?" a passenger pleasantly asked one of these up-and down philosophers. The operator looked at him moodily.

"I'm not a man," he said despondently. "I'm a yo-yo."

Eagles To See Film On Underwater War

"Silent Service," one of the now-it-can-be-told stories about the wartime submarine service, is the title of a technicolor sound film scheduled for the Tuesday evening meeting of the Fayette Aerie of the Eagle's in their lodge building here.

Chief Signalman Albert H. Reed

This meeting, planned by the veterans' affairs committee of the Fayette Aerie, is part of a program to stimulate enlistments in the county reserve unit as well as to acquaint Eagles with the work of the Naval Reserve.

Strikes And Stripes

Here are parts of one of those interesting letters which sometimes come an editor's way. It is from a young newspaper man who has been driving across the country getting information for a series of stories. It speaks for itself and needs no added comment.

"I spent Saturday night in Columbus, Ohio, and started driving to Pittsburgh Sunday morning. Towards evening I took a little gravel road, off the main road, to find a quiet place to sit in the back of the car to write the family. I came on another spoils bank—or is it spoil bank?

("Editor's note: Anyway you look at it, it is a spoiled bank!")

"In that part of Ohio, between Cadiz and Steubenville, you can't drive half a mile without seeing the chaos of those spoils banks. They are the excretions of the strip mining of coal. The great power shovels dig huge channels through the country-side spewing out tons of earth in their search for coal. This dirt, called the 'over-burden', forms the banks. It was the first time I had looked on the devastations of strip mining, and I was shocked at what it had done to the country.

"You see fields of wheat or corn perched on the edge of a gulch stripping has made, looking as if the next rain would wash them in. Sometimes it does. I guess the strippers have paid the farmers for their land, but is it worth it? I understand striping is growing continually, what with the strike threats chronic in underground mining, making it pay to strip this coal. Road gangs and road contractors do much of it, too. Maybe when this series is done I'll go back and do one on the evils of striping. It takes so many years to get the soil back even if reforested in a way to get trees to grow. Sometimes it is washed down into rivers and thence into the Gulf of Mexico and never gets back."

Taft And 1948

The year 1948 probably means now or never for Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. He will then be 59, and in 1952 he will be 63. Few men have been nominated for president in their 60's unless they were already occupying the White House.

In 1940, with a large batch of southern delegates supporting him, Taft seemed to have a good chance for the Republican nomination, but was overwhelmed by Wendell Willkie's rush from behind. Instead of trying again in 1944, he withdrew for his fellow-Ohioan, John W. Bricker, who had retired in his favor four years earlier. Though Bricker had campaigned steadily for the presidency for years, his candidacy never developed great strength outside of Ohio. Though understood to be a Taft supporter now, he has not yet moved publicly out of Taft's way. He would be only human if while officially supporting Taft, he privately hoped that his friend

At a large gathering where the hostess cannot possibly get about to introduce strangers to each other, it is perfectly proper for guests who observe others who obviously are strangers to begin conversation with them.

Today's Horoscope

You have a keen, alert active mind if this is your birthday anniversary. You are energetic and, when working under any strain, you are nervous and somewhat petulant, although you are charming and happy when your mind is free. You enjoy culture and refinement, love children and will be happy in your own home. The day's influences are adverse. Separative influences are in force. Avoid damage and breaks. Variable influences portend good and ill experiences in your next year. Sudden, quite unexpected events, causing quarrels or undesired changes or travel will be somewhat compensated by love, devotion and secret help of others. Born on this date a child will be liable to sudden upheavals in life, but secret help will always be forthcoming from friends or relatives.

would miss fire, and Bricker emerge as the man of the hour.

Therefore 1948 is Taft's year if he is ever going to make it. He has only the usual obstacles, the other candidates.

Misunderstanding A Candidate

Gov. Dewey cannot be politically safe and sane in some people's eyes. Commenting on the outburst of rent raises, he said, "Landlords must exercise complete reasonableness in operating under the new federal law; and I urge them to do so for the protection of tenants and of the landlord themselves, if extremely repressive legislation is to be avoided."

Prominent real estate dealers have called Senator Taft a Communist for advocating federal housing. What will they think of Gov. Dewey?

Candidates are going to utter many words subject to misunderstanding between now and November, 1948. And many will be the voices raised to take every possible political advantage of the too-hasty word. It's just as well for the citizen to be calm and not believe everything he hears. Neither Dewey nor Taft may make the best possible president, but they are not Communists.

Real Rain

It is often unwise to take nature for granted. Even in the steadiest region, or in the least expected part of the year, she may go on a binge and kick over the meteorological traces. One of the most startling cases lately occurred in Erie, Pennsylvania, where the weather is usually clear and too warm for comfort at this time of year.

A tremendous rainfall poured down over a considerable area. Scores of families had to be evacuated and there were weather damages estimated at a million dollars. Umbrellas were useless against a down-pour of 9.03 inches in less than nine hours of almost solid "precipitation," as the weather men call it. It certainly was precipitate. In other parts of the country there have been flash floods and similar disturbances.

Man may think he's smart, but nature still rules.

Recent airplane crashes suggest that it may be wise for a while to stop bragging about having "mastered the air."

A Letter from Washington

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—For years mapmakers haven't been able to draw the boundaries of the nations of Europe. They still can't.

The borders were so scrambled by the war, and still are, that the mapmakers have to wait until they're finally settled by peace treaties.

In the meantime the cartographers of the National Geographic Society, for instance, are engaged in making maps of Canada and various sections of the United States as well as of other countries whose borders weren't changed by the war.

The National Geographic maps, distributed to members in editions of the National Geographic Magazine, have come to form a standard source of reference in schools and libraries everywhere.

Since publishing its first map supplement in June 1899, the society has distributed 89,976,872 copies of 10-1 large full-color maps. As of April this year, the number of copies of each map has grown to 1,600,000.

Ten maps of Europe were published from the beginning of the century up to World War II.

During the seven years encompassing the war the society supplied members and the armed services with more than 37,400,000 large 10-color maps.

The war department, during the war, used more than 1,000,000 National Geographic maps. One order alone called for 80,000 copies of the China map issued in June 1945. The Navy also used the maps. One of its early orders was for several hundred copies of the map of the Pacific ocean, to be sent to ships in that area, right after Pearl Harbor.

The society boasts that its maps are "clear, concise and comprehensive, containing a wealth of information" and points to the 1946 map of the United States as an example. It bears 10,750 place names. In addition to this new one-sheet map of this country, the society has just issued the fourth in its series of U. S. regional maps. On these maps towns appear.

New maps have been made of Bible Lands and the Classical Lands of the Mediterranean. There are also maps of the world by hemispheres. Include in the maps are such items as airfields, airlines, naval bases, oil pipelines and ship routes, as well as railways, roads, towns, drainage, relief boundaries, time zones.

The first supplements were of the newly acquired Philippines. The plates were borrowed from the government. As the society grew it organized its own research and cartographic staff, which has since designed and produced all the maps. The map-making project has been financed from membership dues.

Albert H. Bumstead, the first chief cartographer, devised a method of photo-printing for all map lettering. Place names, for instance, under this device can be produced in any size and can be printed in curves instead of straight lines.

In making a map, the area and projection are first decided upon, then the intersections points for a network of lines to represent latitude and longitude.

From the first the making of a map requires more than a score of cartographers, draftsmen, research workers and checkers. Making the mountains on one typical map, for instance, required three months of work.

Don't Disregard a Knee Pain

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT is not at all uncommon for athletes to come to the physician's office complaining of "a trick knee" or for a patient to say, "Doctor, my knee goes out of joint."

These people have what is known as an internal derangement of the knee joint, and most often this derangement consists of either a tear in the cartilage between the bones and the joint, or a bit of material loose in the joint.

The symptoms of these two disorders usually consist of pain, locking or catching of the joint, or swelling. It may be that only one of these symptoms will show up, but in most instances all three will be present together.

Careful Examination

If a patient complains of some trouble with the joint, he should of course have a careful examination. He is allowed to walk so that the doctor can observe whether or not there is swelling of the joint or any wasting of the large muscles of the thigh. Following this examination, an X-ray of the joint is taken. The X-ray will not necessarily show what disturbance is present, but it is helpful in the diagnosis.

(Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

For example, a tear of the cartilage and injury to the soft tissue are not often visible in the X-ray. On the other hand, if there is calcium or lime deposit or a loose piece of bone, or a break in the bone, it will show in the X-ray plate.

Cause of Derangements

According to Dr. Mark B. Coveney of the Mayo Clinic, the main cause of derangement of the knee joint is a weakness of the large muscle in the thigh known as the quadriceps femoris. A complete cure cannot be brought about unless this muscle is brought back to normal. This often requires a systematic program of exercises.

In the case of a loose body in the joint or a tear in the cartilage, operative treatment is often necessary to bring about a cure. Leaving a loose bit of material in the joint will result in injury to the cartilage, and thus may cause permanent disability.

Whenever trouble with the knee joint occurs, immediate study by an orthopedic specialist would appear advisable. When the cause of the trouble is found, the most suitable type of treatment can be carried out.

DON'T QUIT

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all uphill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high,
And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest if you must - but never quit.

Life is queer, with its twists and turns,
As every one of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about
When he might have won if he'd stuck it out,
Stick to your task, though the pace seems slow,
You may succeed with another blow.

Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man.

Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the victor's cup,
And learned too late, when the night slipped down,
How close he was to the golden crown.

Success is failure turned inside out,
The silver tints of the clouds of doubt,
And you never can tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar,
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit,
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

HERCULE POIROT, enjoying a mid-morning cup of chocolate, was interrupted by the ringing of the telephone. He got up and lifted the receiver.

"Hello?"

"Lady Angkatell?"

"How nice of you to know my voice. Am I disturbing you?"

"Not at all. You are, I hope, none the worse for the distressing events of yesterday?"

"No, indeed. Distressing, as you say, but one feels, I find, quite detached. I rang you up to know if you could possibly come over—an imposition, I know, but I am really in great distress . . ."

"But certainly, Lady Angkatell. Did you mean now?"

"Well, yes, I did mean now. As quickly as you can. That's very sweet of you."

"Not at all. I will come by the woods, then?"

"Oh, of course—the shortest way. Thank you so much, dear M. Poirot."

Pausing only to brush a few specks of dust off the lapels of his coat and to slip on a thin overcoat, Poirot crossed the lane and hurried along the path through the chestnuts. The swimming pool was deserted—the police had finished their work and gone. It looked innocent and peaceful in the soft, impenetrable light.

Poirot took a quick look into the pavilion. The platinum fox cape, he noted, had been removed. But the six boxes of matches still stood upon the table by the settee. He wondered more than ever about those matches.

"It is not a place to keep matches—here in the damp. One box for convenience, perhaps—but not six."

He frowned down on the painted iron table. The tray of glasses had been removed. Someone had scrawled with a pencil on the table—a rough design of a nightmarish tree. It pained Hercule Poirot. It offended his tidy mind.

He clicked his tongue, shook his head, and hurried on toward the house, wondering at the reason for this urgent summons.

Lady Angkatell was waiting for him at the French windows and swept him into the empty drawing room.

"It was nice of you to come, M. Poirot."

She clasped his hand warmly. "Madame, I am at your service."

Lady Angkatell's hands floated out expressively. Her wide beautiful eyes opened.

"You see, it's all so difficult. The inspector person is interviewing me, questioning—taking a statement—what is the term they use?—Gudgeon. And really, our whole life here depends on Gudgeon, and one does so sympathize with him. Because, naturally, it is terrible for him to be questioned by the police—even Inspector Grange, who I do feel is really—boys, I think, and he helps them with Meccano in the evenings—and a wife who has everything spotless but a little over-crowded."

Hercule Poirot blinked as Lady Angkatell developed her imaginary sketch of Inspector Grange's home life.

"By the way his mustache droops," went on Lady Angkatell—"I think that a home that is too spotless might be sometimes depressing—like soap on hospital nurses' faces. Quite a shine! But that is more abroad where things lag behind—in London nursing homes they have lots of powder and really vivid lipstick. But I was saying, M. Poirot, that you really must come to lunch properly when all this ridiculous business is over."

"You are very kind."

"I do not mind the police myself," said Lady Angkatell. "I really find it all quite interesting. Do let me help you in any way I can," I said to Inspector Grange. He seems rather a bewildered sort of person, but methodical."

"Motive seems so important to policemen," she went on. "Talking of hospital nurses just now, I believe that John Christow—a nurse with red hair and an upturned nose—quite attractive. But of course, it was a long time ago and the police might not be interested. One doesn't really know how much poor Gerda had to put up with. She is the loyal type, don't you think? Or possibly she believes what is told her. I think if one has not a great deal of intelligence, it is wise to do that."

Quite suddenly, Lady Angkatell flung open the study door and ushered Poirot in, crying brightly, "Here is M. Poirot." She swept around him and out, shutting the door. Inspector Grange and Gudgeon were sitting by the desk. A young man with a note-book was in a corner. Gudgeon rose respectfully to his feet.

Poirot hastened into apologies. "I retire immediately. I assure you I had no idea that Lady Angkatell—"

"No, no, you wouldn't have." Grange's mustache looked more pessimistic than ever this morning. Perhaps, thought Poirot, fascinated by Lady Angkatell's recent sketch of Grange, there has been too much cleaning or perhaps a Benares table has been purchased so that the good inspector he really cannot have space to move.

Angry, he dismissed these thoughts. Inspector Grange's clean but overcrowded home, his wife, his boys and their addiction to Meccano were all fragments of Lady Angkatell's busy brain.

But the vividness with which they assumed concrete reality interested him. It was quite an accomplishment.

"Sit down, M. Poirot," said Grange. "There's something I want to ask you about, and I've nearly finished here."

He turned his attention back to Gudgeon, who deferentially and almost under protest resumed his seat toward his interlocutor.

"And that's all you can remember?"

"Yes, sir. Everything, sir, was very much as usual. There was no unpleasantness of any kind."

"There's a fur cape thing—out in that summer house by the pool. Which of the ladies did it belong to?"

"Are you referring, sir, to a cape of platinum fox? I noticed it yesterday when I took out the glasses to the pavilion. But it is not the property of anyone in this house, sir."

"Whose is it, then?"

"It might possibly belong to Miss Cray, sir. Miss Veronica Cray, the motion picture actress."

She was wearing something of the

"When?"

"When she was here the night before last, sir."

"You didn't mention her as having been a guest here."

"She was not a guest, sir. Miss Cray lives at Dovecotes, the—er—cottage up the lane, and she came over after dinner, having run out of matches, to borrow some."

"Did she take away six boxes?" asked Poirot.

Gudgeon turned to him. "That is correct, sir. Her ladyship, after having inquired if we had plenty, insisted on Miss Cray's taking half a dozen boxes."

"Which she left in the pavilion," said Poirot.

"Yes, sir. I observed them there yesterday morning."

"There is not much that that man does not observe," remarked Poirot as Gudgeon departed, closing the door softly and deferentially behind him.

Inspector Grange merely remarked that servants were the devil!

"However," he said with a little renewed cheerfulness, "there's always the kitchen maid, Kitchen maids talk—not like those stuck-up servants."

"I've put a man on to make inquiries at Harley Street," he went on, "and I shall be there myself later in the day. We ought to get something here. Daresay, you know, that wife of Christow's had a good bit to put up with. Some of these fashionable doctors and their lady patients—well, you'd be surprised! And I gather from Lady Angkatell that there was some trouble over a hospital nurse. Of course, she was very vague about it."

"Yes," Poirot agreed. "She would be vague."

A skillfully built up picture. . . . John Christow and amorous intrigues with hospital nurses. . . . the opportunities of a doctor's life. . . . plenty of reasons for Gerda Christow's jealousy which had culminated at last in murder.

Yes, a skillfully suggested picture. . . . drawing attention to a Harley Street background—away from The Hollow—away from the moment when Henrietta Saver-nake, stepping forward, had taken the revolver from Gerda Christow's unresisting hand. . . . away from that other moment when John Christow, dying, had said "Henrietta."

"Suddenly opening his eyes, which had been half closed, Hercule Poirot demanded with irresistible curiosity:

"Do your boys play with Meccano?"

"Eh, what?" Inspector Grange came back from a frowning reverie to stare at Poirot. "Why, what on earth? As a matter of fact, they're a bit young—but I was thinking of giving Teddy a Meccano set for Christmas? What made you ask?"

Poirot shook his head. "What made Lady Angkatell dangerous, he thought, was the fact that those intuitive wild guesses of hers might often be right. . . . With a careless (seemingly careless) word she built up a picture—right, wouldn't you, in spite of yourself, believe in the other half of the picture?"

Marlyn H. Wilt Gets ROTC Honor

Marlyn H. Wilt, 23-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wilt, Route 3 Sabina, was selected to act as Flight Sergeant of Squadron C for one week, starting July 27, at the Eleventh Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corp Summer Camp, Langley Field, Virginia, it was learned here Monday.

During World War II Cadet Wilt got his flight training in Florida and was one of ten men selected for special training with Royal Air Force flyers for eventual transport duty.

Last June Wilt completed his first year of pre-law study at Ohio University, Athens, under the provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights. The purpose of the ROTC Summer Camp which he is now attending is to give specialized training to specially selected men. It is the first such camp to be organized since the close of World War II.

Sen. A. L. Daniels Commended on School Aid Bill

Ohio Education Association Sends Letter of Praise

Senator Albert L. Daniels of Greenfield, who represents Fayette County as part of the fifth-sixth district, in the upper house of the state Legislature, today received the commendation of the influential Ohio Education Association for his part in effecting teacher salary increases in Ohio.

(The fifth-sixth senatorial district includes five counties: Fayette, Greene, Clinton, Highland and Ross.)

Sen. Daniels was co-sponsor of the Daniels-Cramer School Aid bill which had the backing of the OEA. In addition, the measure was endorsed by the Washington C. H. and Fayette County Teachers Association and virtually all of the Parent Teachers Association. It is acknowledged as the incentive which brought about teacher salary increases of from $400 to more than $600 a year in city and county schools throughout Ohio.

In a letter to Sen. Daniels, commending him for the prominent part he played in the bill's passage, Walton B. Bliss, executive secretary of the Ohio Education Association, said:

"No one knows as well as I the long hours you spent upon this particular piece of legislation and the constant concern for its success which gripped you. In the many hectic hours spread over an entire week when the bill was before the conferees of the House and Senate, it was your attitude and your efforts which held the line and which resulted in the final agreement on an $86,000,000 annual program. More than one of your fellow Senators has pointed out to me that the credit for so good a bill rests entirely with you. This I know full well.

"Certainly, the school forces of Ohio—school boards, school administrators, teachers, and other school employees are eternally in debt to you for bringing Ohio to a rightful recognition of its school responsibilities. The citizenry and, even more, the children of Ohio are beholden to you for the great work you have done. It is my duty as well as my great pleasure as executive officer of the Ohio Education Association to laud your vision, to acclaim your stout-heartedness and your will to win, to praise unstintingly your loyalty to this great cause and your energy and resourcefulness which brought it to success. You have done much in the past; the old lustre is undimmed, but a new and spectacular brightness has been added."

In addition Bliss said, "Many may have overlooked the fact that you struck the first strong blow for the cause of school support when you so effectively laid before the Senate early in February a picture of the revenue outlook for this biennium. These revenue estimates of yours had a telling effect, because schools'

Mule Dealers Put Up Squeal When Dealer in Kansas Gets Exclusive Mexico Contract

KANSAS CITY — (P) — Ferdinand Owen, Kansas City mule dealer, today took the position that "when you get a pig under the gate, he'll squeal."

His comment came in a controversy growing out of the bursting of the Mexican mule bubble.

Twenty mule dealers from various parts of the country met yesterday in Washington, voicing complaint that they had purchased animals to meet a supposed demand in Mexico and now were stuck with them.

One of their number, they complained, had out-traded them, sending an emissary direct to the Mexican government and thus had obtained an exclusive contract.

Owen, president of two horse and mule trading firms here, disclosed that he was the "one of their number" who has a contract to deliver 20,000 of the hard tails to Mexico, with the exchange to be made at Eagle Pass, Tex. He said the Mexican government was paying him a flat $115 a head, F.O.B., Eagle Pass.

"You know when you get a pig under the gate's he'll squeal," commented Owen. "These guys are squealing. I outsmarted 'em and now they're trying to crucify me with a law that would keep me from exporting my mules."

He was referring to a bill by Rep. Lucas (D-Tex.) which would bar export of any mules except from the agriculture delegitimate needs would have been throttled if the revenue estimates of a special committee of the House had not been so forcibly challenged."

War on Crime Given Impetus By New Method

Law Officers Here
Plan To Make Use of Mobile Laboratory

Washington C. H. and Fayette County law enforcement officers today showed considerable interest when William McElroy, executive secretary of the Buckeye State Sheriffs' Association, revealed that a mobile crime detection laboratory designed to aid in solving Ohio crimes will be put into use within the next few months.

Orland Hays, Fayette County sheriff, said that if a major crime should occur within his jurisdiction the new mobile crime detection laboratory would be called in to assist in finding the criminal and bringing him to justice. He added that "the mobile laboratory will really help sheriffs in small towns a great deal."

Washington C. H. Chief of Police, Valden Long, also anticipated using the new unit. "The majority kind of an offer," he said. "Of course I'll buy mules anywhere I can get them if they're worth the money. But I haven't said I'd buy any of those mules at any price."

Owen said he had made a trip to Mexico and had talked with Mexican officials. "Just a case of 'getting on the ball and knowing the ropes,'" he said.

"These other fellows can't stand to be outsmarted!" Owen summarized. "Now they're trying to block me, and also lay blame on our department of agriculture. The department never made those guys any promises."

of police departments are not equipped to handle crime detection in an adequate manner," he said.

"Consequently," he concluded, "the mobile laboratory should prove to be a great help to all law enforcement agencies, including those within Fayette County."

The "laboratory on wheels" will cost approximately $10,000 and will be equipped with a complete chemical laboratory, a lie detector, cameras, a film developing dark-room, an ultra violet ray machine, a police recorder and a sound detector. In his announcement McElroy pointed out that "the laboratory will place scientific detection methods at the disposal of all local law enforcement agencies now without such services."

The new mobile unit is being purchased by the Buckeye State Sheriffs' Association for the State Welfare Department. It will be operated by the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation under the direct supervision of Col. Ozni Carnwall, superintendent of the bureau.

"When the laboratory swings into action, it will mean that numerous local agencies faced with solving major crimes will have at their disposal a unit which can roll right up to the scene of a crime and start immediate detection tests without unnecessary delay," McElroy said. Two or three men will probably be assigned to the moving laboratory, each a specialist in a particular field of crime detection.

Protests Preacher, Divorcee Marriage

NEW YORK, July 28—(P)—Bishop William T. Manning, in a letter in the current issue of "The Living Church," has protested the fact that the first wife of Elliot Roosevelt was permitted to marry a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The retired bishop of the Diocese of New York also protested the fact that the Very Rev. Kirk B. O'Ferrall, dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit, was allowed to marry a divorced woman.

In his letter, Bishop Manning asked whether the action in the two Dioceses concerned meant "we are now to have a number of ecclesiastical Renos, and the consequence abolition of any Christian standards of marriage, in the church."

Piano Recital Is Given On Sunday

A group of appreciative and interested friends and relatives heard a brilliant piano recital on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock when Miss Rosalyn Wilson presented an outstanding pupil, Miss Hazel Engle, 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Engle of Bloomingburg, in a varied and difficult musical program at the Wilson home.

Little Miss Engle, who has studied piano since four years of age, the past year with Miss Wilson, shows promise of becoming an outstanding artist as a pianist and displayed unusual ability, poise and technique in the performance of each of her numbers. Her program was given entirely by memory and the rendition of the selections showed careful training and hard study.

The recital opened with "Air and Variations", Beethoven and continued with "Sonata No. 111, Second and Third Movements", Mozart; "Spanish Dance", Granados and "Prelude in C Minor", Czerwonky. At the conclusion Miss Engle was called back by her audience and played as an encore the enjoyable, "Puck" by Grieg.

Miss Engle wore for the occasion a formal dress of ice blue dotted Swiss, with a corsage pinned at her waist, and following her program with Miss Wilson welcomed each guest, who complimented her upon her exceptional talent as a young musician.

During the social hour Miss Wilson invited her guests to the dining room where punch and accompanying delicacies were served from a prettily appointed table with a pink, blue and white color scheme predominating. Mrs. Engle presided over the punch bowl which was nestled in a cluster of pink and white sweet peas, and flanked on either side by tall pink candles in crystal holders. The flowers used in the decorations, including the colorful bouquets placed at vantage points throughout the home, were all from the garden of Mrs. Engle and were greatly admired. Mrs. Kay Morier and Mary Lou Sollars assisted in the hospitalities.

MISS DIXIE LOU GRAVES

The engagement of Miss Dixie Lou Graves daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Graves, to Mr. Hugh Reason of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Reason of near Good Hope, was made known to a group of her close friends when Miss Mary Lou Follis entertained with an evening of bridge at her home on Saturday. Scrolls with a clever original verse in rhyme, revealed that the wedding would be an event of December, and were concealed in containers of candies placed on the tables seating the group, for the several progressions in the popular game. Miss Jean Willis was the winner of the attractive award, presented as the high score trophy.

A tempting dessert course was served featuring a pink and white color scheme, in the wedding bell ice cream molds, and individual small cakes, topped with a pink rose. Miss Graves, a graduate of Washington C. H. High School, and of Miami University, Oxford, is employed as second grade teacher in the Good Hope School, where she expects to continue the coming year. Bosox Whittle Down Yankee Lead As Williams Continues Slugging

By JOE REICHLER
(By the Associated Press)

The pennant picture in the major leagues has taken on a new aspect in recent days all because of a couple of real professionals—Ted Williams and Dixie Walker.

Only a week ago experts were predicting a New York Yankee rout in the American League flag race while forecasting another nerve-ringing down-to-the-wire finish in the National. The Yankee finish in the 12½ games ahead of the Boston Red Sox while the Brooklyn Dodgers were only two and a half in front of the Boston Braves and New York Giants.

But today, the Red Sox, led by Williams, once again as the "terrible Teddy" of the 1941 and '42 seasons, have cut three full games off the Yankees' lead and now trail by nine and half games.

The Dodgers, with Walker hitting with the same old gusto that established him as the "people's cherch" in flatbush, have opened up a seven game bulge over the second place St. Louis Cardinals.

Williams, stymied by the assorted shifts set up against his left handed pull hitting, finally broke through the unorthodox defense with a tremendous power display that enabled him to raise his early July average of .297 to .330. During the past three weeks, Ted has been belting at a .420 clip.

Walker bettered his July 8 mark of .279 to an even .300 in three weeks.

Dixie drove in three runs yesterday to help the Dodgers sweep both ends of a double header from the Pirates in Pittsburgh 8-4 and 11-4, and extended their latest winning streak to nine.

The Red Sox took two from the St. Louis Browns in Boston, 4-3 and 12-2. Tex Hughson and Dave Ferriss were the winning pitchers.

The Yankees lost a full game from their lead when they were held to a split in their double header with the Chicago White Sox. After Bobo Newsom had won his fourth straight game in a Yankee uniform by pitching a 7-4 win, the White Sox came back to win the nightcap, 5-4.

The Cardinals lost a game and half to the Dodgers when the Braves behind the seven-hit pitching of Johnny Sain, handed them a 10-3 lacing. The Braves pounded Harry Brecheen and four other pitchers for 18 blows, including seven doubles and Holmes' home run.

The Giants staged a 16-hit attack, including Bobby Thomson's 19th home run, to defeat the Chicago Cubs 12-6. The Cubs used six pitchers.

Oscar Judd won his first game of the season as the Philadelphia Phillies divided a double header with the Reds in Cincinnati. After Kent Peterson had pitched the Reds to a 5-1 win in the first game, Judd outlasted three Red leg hurlers to give the Phillies a 6-4 nightcap win.

Third place Detroit lost an opportunity to gain on the Yankees when they were held to a split by the Athletics in Philadelphia, the A's coming back to win the second game 5-0 after Detroit had won the opener 5-1.

Manager Lou Boudreau drove in both Cleveland runs to give the Indians a 2-1 victory over the Senators in Washington. Boudreau made two of the Indians' five hits against Early Wynn.

Ashville's Reds Swamp Eagles; Jeffersonville Splits Twin Bill

The Ashville Reds today are still at the top of the SCO League with firmer grip than ever.

They entrenched themselves in the lead Sunday at the expense of the Washington C. H. Eagles, whom they defeated, 15 to 1, in a top-sided game at Wilson Field here.

Adding to the humiliation of the Eagles and headache of the Washington C. H. fans was the clouting of Wally Noon, a Washington C. H. native. He lambasted the Eagles pitchers for five solid hits, one of them a lusty home run, in six times at bat.

After the Reds put across four runs in the first inning, the outcome of the game was never much in doubt. Before it was over, they had not only collected 20 hits, but played errorless ball in the field.

The Eagles got their lone tally in the last inning.

CUBS WIN TWO

Meanwhile, Jeffersonville's Cubs, the other Fayette County entry in the SCO, divided a doubleheader at Grove City. The first game was won by the Dodgers, 8 to 3. The second, which was called in the seventh because of the gathering storm, was taken by the Cubs by a 2-1 score.

The Dodgers got to Amato, the ace of the Cubs mound staff, for 14 hits but tight defenses nipped several scoring threats.

Both teams played errorless ball in the nightcap.

NO-HITTER FOR POLING

Highlight of the SCO games Sunday was the no-hit-no-run pitching job turned in by Poling as Lancaster's Glasmen won a pitchers' duel from Jamestown, 1 to 0, in the second half of their doubleheader. Townley did all right for the Lions by coming through with a two-hitter.

The Glasmen also won the opener, 8 to 3 when the Lions made nine miscues in the field to help the winners pile up the win.

GREENFIELD WINS

Greenfield's Athletics sent the

Legion Teams To Open Week

While Wilson Field was still soggy after Sunday evening's downpour, indications at mid-day Monday were that if there is no more rain the two Legion teams of the Paul H. Hughey and Homer Lawson posts would meet on schedule in the evening.

This will be one of the regular second round game of the City League.

The colored veterans of the Lawson post, one of the two conquerors of the Hughey post outfit in the first round, still have a chance to win the championship of the first half of the schedule.

If there is much more rain, Fred Pierson, the recreation director, said there game would probably have to be postponed.

Holes-in-One Made On Same Green by Two in Foursome

AKRON, July 28—(AP)—Golf experts had to take a hard look in the record books today for duplication of a pair of shots by Abe Joseph and Morley Storey.

It was on the 140-yard No. 4 hole at Turkeyfoot Country Club yesterday, and they were playing in the same foursome.

First, Joseph hit a hole-in-one with his seven iron. After every-body, including Joseph, had recovered, Storey grabbed his No. 5 iron and teed off.

His ball hit the pin and bounded onto the green, then back-bounded into the cup, right on top of Joseph's.

Speed and Consistency Mark Harness Races On Closing Day of Fair

Blistering speed and consistency of performance by the winners marked the closing day of the harness racing program of the Fair here Saturday.

Every dash of the four $1,000 stakes was in less than 2:11—horsemens said that was unusual for an eight race card—and the fastest mile was turned by Barbara B in 2:5 4-5, within about two seconds of the track record of 2:03 1/4.

Eddie Cobb, Washington C. H. reinsman drove three of the winners. One was his own Ben B, a bay gelding by True Volo, who finished fourth in the first heat won by Black Chief, but came back strong to win the second dash of the 2:25 pace in 2:09. Although shuffled back in the first dash, Ben B was an even-money favorite in his second appearance Black Chief, who paid $7.40 to win the first dash, was third in the second.

The other races were won in straight heats and all were at short odds.

Florian paid $9.40 to win the opening dash of the three-year-old trot in 2:09 3-5, but was an odds-on favorite of $3.60 to $2 when he won the second, Princess Key, at $7 for $2, was second in the first dash and Agro Mite, third the first time around, placed for $3 for the second.

March First, which had come all the way from Whitesville, N. Y., and was driven by Cobb, won both ends of the 2:25 trot. The favorite, paying even money in the first dash and $3.40 for $2 in the second, he beat out Bonnie Rose and Motley's Choice in the first and Motley's Choice and Peter Winans in the second. All were short price in the betting.

Barbara B went the two fastest miles of the afternoon in winning both dashes of the 2:18 pace. She paid $9 for $2 as she won the opening dash in 2:06 with Private George second and Martin C. third. So impressive was her performance that when she beat Martin C. and Caroline Abbe in 2:05 4-5 in the second dash she paid her mutual backers only $2.60 for $2.

Good Hope Wins From Lynchburg

Good Hope's baseball team sent the boys from Lynchburg back home smarting under a 9 to 3 defeated handed them Sunday afternoon.

For the Good Hope team it was the fifth victory in seven games this season. For the Lynchburg outfit, it was only the second defeat in eleven games.

Bobby Dawes turned in a seventh pitching performance for Good Hope in the seven innings he was on the mound. His brother Kenny took over for the last two stanzas and held opposing batsmen hitless and scoreless.

At no time did Tommy Smalley's Good Hope boys seem in any serious danger after Virgil Palmer the first batter up in the first inning slammed a lusty home run clear over the high school gymnasium.

The Good Hoppers are slated to go Bainbridge next Sunday to play the rub game of their series. Each team has one victory and one defeat thus far.

Blues Hold Lead By Defeating Birds

(By the Associated Press)

The pace-setting Kansas City Blues just don't seem able to shake the stubborn Louisville Colonels in the American Association race, but they have a golden opportunity this week in a four-game set with last-place Toledo.

The Blues, who yesterday (Sunday) divided a twin bill with Columbus in 100-degree weather at Kansas City, today will open the series against the tail-end Mud Hens holding a narrow two-game lead over the pressing Colonels, who also split yesterday with St. Paul.

By salvaging the nightcap, 4-3, after losing the opener, 10-2, the Colonels wound up a St. Paul invasion with four victories in five starts against the Saints.

It required steady pitching by Bill Wight, who notched his 11th win against seven defeats, for Kansas City to down Columbus 5-1 after the Red Birds copped the opener, 4-2.

The association's two other bargain bills yesterday also were give-and-take. Milwaukee handed Toledo its sixth straight trimming in the opener, 2-1, and then were nipped in the finale, 5-3 as the Brood's Hank Helf blasted a two-run homer, and Minneapolis topped Indianapolis, 4-1, then lost 8-4, as pitcher Steve Nagy belted a three-run homer.

Tonight's schedule: Toledo at Kansas City, Columbus at Milwaukee, Indianapolis at St. Paul, Louisville at Minneapolis.

Bobby Locke Wins Columbus Open

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, July 28—(P) — With $20,537.50 in his pocket after less than four months of playing over American courses, South African golf champion Bobby Locke headed today toward another payoff in the St. Paul Minn., $10,000 open scheduled July 31-August 3.

The benickered clouter from the dark continent fired a scintillating 274, a mere 14 under par, to win the second annual Columbus open yesterday by five strokes over Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., and leaped right out in front in the money-won list.

Ben Hogan, who has led the parade all season, wound up in a ninth place tie with 289, picking up $306 while Locke was getting $2,000, and the little fellow Hershey, Pa., skidded to third in the cash list behind Demaret, who grabbed $1,400 for his 279 effort.

In playing 10 medal play tournaments, Locke has fired 2,777 shots in this country, and has collected $20,527.50—that figures out at $7.39 every time he has swung a club in competition, not counting what he's picked up on some lucrative exhibitions.

After Demaret's 279, five strokes back of the invader, came Melvin (Chick) Harbert of Detroit with 283, much of it due to a course-record 32-32—64 in the third round, two strokes better than the Columbus Country Club had ever been negotiated. Chick skidded to a 75 on the final round. However, Bobby Locke, South Africa, 274, $2,000; Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., 279, $1,400; Chick Harbert, Detroit, Mich., 283, $1,000; Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C., 285, $700; Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., 285, $700; Harry Todd, Dallas, Tex., 285, $700; Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., 287, $500; Freddie Haas, Jr., New Orleans, 288, $450; Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, 289, $306; Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., 289, $306; E. J. Herring, York, Pa., 289, $306; Ky Laffoon, St. Andrews, Ill., 290, $306; Al Smith, Danville, Va., 289, $306; X—Frank Stranahan, Toledo, 290; Bob Kepler, Columbus, 290, $167.50; Bill Nary, San Francisco, 290, $167.50; Tommy Wright, Knoxville, Tenn., 290, $167.50; George Payton, Hampton, Va., 290, $167.50; Ralph Bonquist, Glendale, Calif., 292, $125.00; Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del., 292, $125.00; Denny Shute, Akron, O., 294, $50.00; Lew Worsham, Pittsburgh, 294, $50.00; X—low amateur.

Legion Juniors In 6-6 Tie At Wilmington

Fayette County's American Legion Junior baseball team will have a chance to break a 6-6 deadlock in Sunday's game with the Junior team at Wilmington Sunday when the two teams meet here next Sunday.

The game was called at the end of the ninth inning, with the score tied, when the Junior teams had to surrender the field for another game.

The Fayette County boys opened their attack early, scoring three runs in the first inning and two more in the third.

Holding a 6 to 3 lead after five innings, the Fayette County team's masterminds started playing all of the boys in the game to give them a chance to play. It was then—in the last four frames—that the Wilmington team scored three runs to tie the score.

Parret and Stockwell, pitching for the Hughey Post's Juniors, held the Wilmingtonians to two hits, but with the aid of breaks of the game and two errors they made them good for half a dozen tallies.

Storm Causes Much Damage Late Sunday

Trees on the Country Club Grounds are Hard Hit

Accompanied by heavy rain-fall and a great deal of lightning, two heavy windstorms swept over Fayette County late Sunday afternoon. The last one did considerable damage to trees in the southern part of the city and on the Country Club grounds.

A small hickory tree was twisted off near the west end of the club house, and barely missed striking the building. About the center of the grounds a huge oak was broken off and sent crashing to the ground.

A cluster of trees near the north corner of the grounds lost a dozen large limbs and other limbs were torn off and left scattered under the big oak trees. A hickory tree was broken off at the ground in the woods south of the grounds.

Limbs nearly blocked McKinley Avenue and also South Fayette Street near the corporation line. Many other trees suffered minor damage in the near-twist.

At some points in the county outside of the city damage was caused by the wind. Some hail fell in a few areas.

Rainfall here was .60 of an inch, although south of the city and in other parts of the county an inch or more of rain fell during the two storms, halting wheat harvest and other farm work.

Considerable damage to buildings and trees was done near Jamestown, reports state.

The same storm that struck here tore the roof from the Eric Wright barn and uprooted some of the trees about the Wright home on U. S. 22 east of New Holland.

On the George Kirk farm near Atlanta all trees were blown down or damaged about the premises. Further damage resulted when the storm again dipped down east of Atlanta.

Jean's Market Gets 4-H Calf

The 845-pound 4-H calf calf that Ronald Moon sold in the Junior Fair auction today is being butchered at the John Weade & Son slaughter house on the Creek Road for Jean's Market on East Temple Street.

More than a dozen of the choice beef calves that the 4-H Club boys and girls sold, including the champion bought by Fred Ensen for the Dot Market on Court Street, were sent to the Weade & Son for butchering and processing. The meat will be on sale in several markets here as soon as it has been aged.

The copy of the official record of the sale, from which the Record-Herald report Friday was taken, listed Ronald Moon's calf as sold to Frank Greer. Frank Jean, however, was the purchaser at 31-cents a pound—just about the average for the 77 head that went under the auctioneer's hammer.

High Requiem Mass Held At St. Coleman's Church

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth A. Cullen were held Monday at 9:30 a. m. at St. Coleman's Church with Father Otto Guenther in charge.

High Requiem Mass was sung by Mrs. Max Wilson, Miss Nancy Brady, Miss Rita Keane and Miss Judy Netzeir.

Pall bearers were Walter Marshall, Edward McRoon, Oscar Orr, Gus McDonald, Claude Zimmerman and Frank Boylan.

Burial was made in the family lot at St. Coleman's Cemetery.

Jeffersonville Boy Scout Camp Opens in August

Marvin M. DeMent To Run Program For 1947 Season

Boy Scout Troop 67 will open its summer camp, located at Shale Cliff near Bainbridge on Paint Creek, on August 11, Clark W. Robinson, scoutmaster of the Jeffersonville unit, announced.

Robinson said new equipment will be put into use when the camp opens. There will be an eight burner stove with a hamburger grill, new tables and benches and a new ice box cooler.

Troop 67 officials report all 41 members probably will attend the summer camp. Scoutmaster Marvin M. DeMent will operate the camp with the assistance of Dwight Spengler, Robert Seibert and David Baughn.

Mrs. Virginia Blackmore, head of the commissary, will plan the meals.

Scoutmaster Robinson will attend the camp sessions as often as possible although he will not be active in the supervision of the camp operation this season.

Two Practices Set This Week For WHS Band

Preparations Being Made for Sunday Trip to Cincinnati

Two practices have been scheduled for this week for the WHS Band to prepare for its trip to Cincinnati next Sunday to lead the veterans of the Washington C. H. posts and the southern district in the parade that is to be one of the highlights of the state Legion convention there.

The first rehearsal, said Bandmaster William Clift, will be in the Little Theater of the high school at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday. The second is scheduled for Friday. The band members are to assemble at the high school at 7 p. m. for a two-ply practice on marching and music.

Clift confessed he was a little discouraged over the outlook. So many of the boys and girls who make up the 100-piece marching band are away for their summer vacations. Rounding up the uniforms is another problem. Clift, who said he did not want to take the band unless he felt reasonably certain it would make a good showing, expressed the hope that, by recalling some of those who were graduated last spring, the band would be a well-rounded organization of from half to three-fourths of normal strength.

The trip will be made by commercial bus and is to be financed by the Legion post with the help of contributions by a number of the band's patrons and admirers.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

W. C. Blue Dies Of Heart Attack

William Creighton Blue, 70, well known farmer who spent most of his life in Fayette County, was found dead in bed at his home near Williamsport, early Monday morning, death having been due to a heart attack suffered sometime during the night.

Mr. Blue had spent most of his life engaged in farming in Fayette County, but for the past 12 years had been engaged in farming near Williamsport.

He was the last member of the family of John and Margaret Rayburn Blue, members of one of the pioneer families of Fayette County.

Mrs. Blue passed away March 31, 1944.

He was a member of the Elks and Eagles lodges in Washington C. H. and widely known in this community.

Funeral services will be held at the Klever Funeral Home, Wednesday at 2 p. m., conducted by Rev. John K. Abernethy, and burial will be made in the family lot in the Washington C. H. cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after noon Tuesday.

Dance Pavilion

and a few minutes later the tree, nearly five-feet in diameter, fell through the roof at the opposite end.

Walter Julien, dispatcher for the Hamilton County police, said the injured were standing at the outer edge of the crowd.

Joseph F. Pflume, who received cuts on both legs, told newsmen the crowd stampeded out of the pavilion into a heavy downpour of rain as the tree tore its way through the roof.

The picnic site, known as Gutzweller's Grove, is located in a remote, western section of the county. Telephones in the area were knocked out by the storm and for a time police were unable to ascertain the extent of the seriousness of the accident.

State Grange Team Elevates 69 Countians

Grange Officials Touring Ohio in Chartered Bus

The state Grange sixth degree team, today is in Morgan County on a two and a half week tour of the outer rim of Ohio, was responsible for the initiation of 69 Fayette Countians into the sixth degree status of the Grange.

More than 100 persons from Fayette County, including the 69 initiates, drove to Xenia for the ceremony held Friday evening in the Field House of that city.

Loren Haynes, secretary of the Ohio Grange, and others in the 15 man degree team have been touring the state as a part of the program to prepare members of the organization for the seventh degree initiation to be held November 13 at the Ohio Theater in Columbus. This will be a part of the National Grange Convention.

The special bus bearing the degree team stopped at the Hynes Farm near here Saturday while officials inspected the new state secretary's office before proceeding to the Fairgrounds here for a tour of exhibits. The group then went to Xenia.

Hynes said the tour started Monday of last week in Lima. The degree team visited Chillicothe on its way to Washington C. H. The largest number initiated into the sixth degree occurred at Dayton, where 1,372 persons advanced one degree.

Mrs. Hynes will accompany her husband on the degree conferring tour this week.

The Warren youths—Lawrence Rogers, Jr., 18, and Andrew J. Scopacasa, 17—died near a pier at Geneva-on-the-Lake in Lake Erie water charged with electricity from a short-circuited power line used for small boats, Dr. Roller reported.

Rogers jumped into the water to save Scopacasa when he saw his friend, reportedly a strong swimmer, was in trouble.

John Baczkowski, 29, and Raymond Czarnecki, 30, both of Cleveland, lost their lives in the Vermilion river, Erie County officials said, after a baseball dropped in the water.

Baczkowski jumped in after it, their account went on, and when he failed to come up Czarnecki also plunged in. Relatives said neither could swim.

At Fairport Harbor, William Wiedeman, 20, of Cleveland drowned while swimming for a rubber raft. A wave swept Michael Kaye, 30, of Cleveland, from a speed boat near Lorain and he drowned, the Coast Guard said.

Fishermen rescued a Bucyrus, O., couple and their 11-year-old son yesterday after they had clung to their overturned motor boat for 45 minutes in Lake Erie, near Port Clinton.

The Coast Guard said the three —Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Himler and their son, John—were fishing from their 12-foot aluminum boat, and that during a change in seats the craft capsized.

They were able to return to their Bucyrus home uninjured, the Coast Guard reported.
